Humphrey Forecasts Deficit For Next Year

Big Tax Cuts Reuther's Conditions Go Into Effect Form Barrier To CIO Merger With AFL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey disclosed Monday that the government faces another red ink year. He declined to say what the administration would recommend regarding tax cuts scheduled to go into effect next April.

"We will not be able to balance the budget in fiscal 1956," Humphrey told a news conference. Fiscal 1956 begins next July 1. He said later in a television version of the conference that "we are struggling to cut expenditures in each department and we will continue to do so until a balance is finally reached."

Humphrey declined to take a position on the tax outlook, pending more information about the government's income and spending next year.

The corporation income tax rate is scheduled to go down next April from 52 to 47 per cent, and a series of federal excise—sales—taxes, including taxes on automobiles, cigarettes and whisky, are scheduled to fall at the same time unless Congress acts meanwhile to block the reductions.

Humphrey told the news conference he could not anticipate whether President Eisenhower will ask Congress to continue the corporation and excise tax rates at their present levels.

However, the Treasury chief's remarks Monday strengthened the general expectation that the White House will ask Congress to refrain from further tax cuts, scheduled or unscheduled, next year.

Humphrey declined to go into figures on next year's finances except to say that "we hope to do better" than the approximately three billion dollar deficit of the fiscal year which ended last June, the administration's first full fiscal year which ended last June, the administration's first full fiscal year in office.

Humphrey said present estimates that the government will go about 4 1/2 billion dollars in the red during the current fiscal year, ending next June 30, seems "about right" although the estimate is so.

The corporation tax cut scheduled for next April would cost the government about 1 1/2 billion dollars next fiscal year, and the scheduled excise reductions would amount to revenue losses of approximately one billion dollars.

Dale, Bateman Extortion Case Goes To Jury

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP)—The case of Evan R. Dale and James Bateman, Southern Illinois labor leaders charged with attempting to extort $1,030,000 from contractors building a power plant at Joppla, Ill., went to a Federal Court jury Monday night.

Federal Judge Fred L. Wham, after an hour of instructions on legal points involved, told the jury of six men and six women to retire to elect a foreman, eat supper and then return to begin deliberations.

Dale, boss of 38,000 AFL common laborers in Southern Illinois, also is charged with extorting $7,500 from a subcontractor on the Joppla plant.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Ben Brooks, in his final argument Monday, said the government has proved that Dale interfered with interstate commerce by demanding the money from Ebasco Services, Inc., first general contractor for the Joppla plant which will furnish power for an atomic energy facility at Paducah, Ky.

"The government doesn't have to prove that the conspiracy was successful," Brooks said, "only that the defendants had understanding of its existence in their minds."

"The government has proved that threats by Dale, direct and indirect, made the contractors fear they would suffer economic loss unless they met his demands," Brooks said.

THIEF IS THOROUGH

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP)—Theodis Spencer reported to police that someone stole his black and tan hunting dog. Next day he was back with a new complaint: Someone had stolen his empty dog house.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—CIO President Walter Reuther Monday raised possible new barriers toward merger with the AFL, but pledged to do "everything possible" to achieve the amalgamation.

Reuther said in a keynote speech to the CIO's annual convention that labor unity must have a "sound" basis for continued union growth as well as adequate power to stamp out "corruption" when it appears in union affairs.

The CIO chief did not label these as outright conditions toward merger with the AFL, but spoke out so strongly on both points that it appeared inevitable he will insist upon them in new merger negotiations due early next year.

He said a combined union setup must not act "as a narrow economic pressure group" but must use its power with "social and moral responsibilities" to the entire country.

Saying that the autonomy or self rule of individual unions must be preserved under a merged setup, Reuther suggested however that this should not be so tight that the labor group would be powerless to cope with union racketeers.

Most CIO officials were not inclined to view Reuther's apparent merger conditions as seriously endangering prospects. There is general optimism that the merger is imminent, and some CIO officials contend the CIO really has little choice as long as one of its largest unions, the steel workers, is reported considering leaving CIO ranks.

Reuther criticized the economic policies of the Eisenhower administration and said they were dedicated to helping big business on the theory prosperity would "trickle down" to the general public.

But he said the problem was not to increase the wealth or capacity of industry but the number of customers for its products. He said auto producers could make three million more cars a year in present plants, but do not because not enough people have money to buy them.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court Monday declined to rule on the right of cities to place fluorine in the public water supply. Advocates of fluoridation contend it reduces tooth decay.

The ruling was asked by three residents of Shreveport, La., who argued that such treatment of the water supply infringed on personal liberties guaranteed by the 14th Amendment of the U. S. Constitution. They appealed from a decision by the Louisiana Supreme Court upholding Shreveport's plan to use the chemical.

"The 14th Amendment," the state court said, "does not deprive a state or its subdivisions of the right to preserve order or to protect the health of the people under its police power. . . and the courts will not interfere except where the measures invade fundamental rights or are arbitrary, oppressive or unreasonable."

The Supreme Court dismissed the appeal with a notation that no substantial federal question was involved.

Block-printed playing cards were used all over Europe half a century before books were printed there.

Earth's Most Prolific People Described In Bureau Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Population Reference Bureau reported Monday, with some awe, that it may have found the most prolific people on earth.

They're the 8,000 Hutterites, a Protestant sect that lives in 98 communal colonies in the Dakotas, Montana and neighboring Canada.

The bureau, a private study group that ponders population trends, is used to strange facts about people. But a society in which a majority of the women have nine or more children is so startling that it used this word to describe the Hutterites: "Phenomenal."

First, about the Hutterites themselves. They began in 1528, in Switzerland and Bohemia. They took their name from Jacob Hutter, who evolved the sect's religious theories.

For two centuries the Hutterites were persecuted both by Catholics and Protestants for their religious beliefs that only an adult should be baptized and accepted by the church.

In 1762 a group fled to Russia, and, when things got hot for them there, 443 of them came to South Dakota. That was between 1874 and 1877. Practically none has come since.

Here they have busied themselves raising crops and little Hutterites, with spectacular success.

The church completely regulates their lives. They live in colonies of 100. When one gets too large, a

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—The Coast Guard reported Monday night that the Tampa tug Bertha R. was "presumed" to have sunk in the Gulf of Mexico about 70 miles southwest of Panama City, Fla.

Eleven men were reported on the tug, which had been towing an oil barge from Texas to Tampa.

A report from a Coast Guard plane circling over the scene said a life raft was in the water but there was no indication anyone had gone onto it.

Coast Guard planes were at the scene but the water was too rough for them to alight. The cutter Cardigan was reported in the area and on the way to help.

McCarthy Absent As Subcommittee Opens Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Investigations subcommittee Monday resumed its hearings on alleged Communist infiltration into defense plants with Chairman McCarthy (R-Wis.) absent. He was reported nursing his sore elbow.

Eight witnesses testified at the closed door session but what they said was not disclosed by subcommittee staff members nor by the two senators who attended, Sen. Mundt (R-S.D.) and Potter (R-Mich.). The three Democrats on the subcommittee were reported to be out of town.

The only witness identified was Herman E. Thomas of Allentown, Pa., a former FBI undercover agent in the Communist party.

Potter said the other seven were from the Bethlehem Steel plant at Bethlehem, Pa., which has secret defense contracts.

Potter said he understood McCarthy planned to be on hand Tuesday if he feels better.

McCarthy's elbow was injured several weeks ago when a hand-shaker pushed it against a glass table top in Milwaukee.

Steve Sheppard Tells Of Divorce Talks With Marilyn

CLEVELAND (AP)—Dr. Stephen Sheppard testified Monday his brother's slain wife, Marilyn, was concerned enough about divorce to come to his office in 1950 and discuss it.

"Did you know if any marital difficulty existed between Sam and Marilyn at any time?" Dr. Steve was asked as a witness in defense of his osteopath brother, Dr. Samuel Sheppard. The latter is on trial for Marilyn's murder.

"Nothing of any importance," he replied.

"Was there ever any marital difficulty during which breakup or divorce were discussed?" he was queried in state cross-examination.

"There was a discussion of such a possibility between Marilyn and me in 1950," Dr. Steve said, pinpointing the date as Aug. 10 when Marilyn visited his office.

"Was there any conversation with Sam about that?"

"I mentioned it to him possibly two weeks later," Dr. Steve replied.

Earlier, Dr. Steve fought to establish that Dr. Sam's neck was broken by his wife's slayer—although fracture signs were as elusive as a shadow.

The 30-year-old first degree murder defendant wore a neck brace for weeks after the death of his pregnant, 31-year-old wife.

Charge Illinois GI Kills Another At Ft. Leonard Wood

PT. LEONARD WOOD, Mo. (AP)—Army officers said Monday that Pvt. Carroll M. Blakey, 17, of Vermilion, Ill., has been charged with unpremeditated murder in the fatal shooting of another soldier.

Pvt. Ralph C. Knight, 17, of Blakey's company, was killed in his barracks last Tuesday. Knight is from Baltimore, Md.

A spokesman said Knight was sitting on his bunk and that Blakey had a carbine rifle and one round of ammunition.

"Investigation to date produces evidence of gross carelessness in the handling of a firearm, as well as evidence of a disagreement between the two men," the Army announcement said.

Knight was authorized to have the gun and ammunition as a guard but Blakey was not a prisoner, the Army said. A pre-trial investigation is continuing.

In ancient times, criminals who had been killed by other means were hanged as a mark of indignity.

U.N. To Debate Demand For Release Of U.S. Fliers

Board Hears Arguments In Rail Carriers Dispute

CHICAGO (AP)—A three-man presidential emergency board today began hearing arguments in a dispute between the nation's railroads and the Order of Railway Conductors and Brakemen.

The conductors have threatened to strike in support of their demand for a revision of pay scales to provide graduated increases for their members pegged to the weights of locomotives pulling the trains on which they work.

The first statement on behalf of the carriers, was given by Howard Neitzert of Chicago, railroads' counsel who told the board a present $600 monthly average wage "adequately" compensates conductors for the work they perform, and the engine-weight yardstick was "completely unjustified and beyond the ability of the carriers to pay."

The board, which will make recommendations to President Eisenhower for his guidance in suggesting settlement provisions, is made up of Edward M. Sharpe, chief justice of the Supreme Court of Michigan; Charles A. Sprague, publisher of the Salem, Ore., Statesman; and John T. Dunlop, professor of economics, Harvard University.

Consul Protests Charge Cuban Men Pinch Pretty Girls

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—To be accused of pinching pretty girls is an insult to Cuban manhood, Consul Oscar Morales declared here Monday.

He demanded an apology from Dr. Harold Campbell, principal of the Key West High School. And he will file an official protest with the Cuban State Department which will pass it along to the U. S. secretary of state.

Campbell started it all in a speech last Wednesday. He told the Kiwanis Club that his high school's band had been invited to participate for the fourth time in the "Omparsas," a parade opening the carnival season at Havana in February.

"I don't think we'll accept the invitation this time," said Dr. Campbell. "The men made indecent gestures and pinched the girls in the band. I don't think Cuban men have very high respect for women."

Morales fumed over the speech last week, Monday he exploded. "It isn't true," said Morales in a statement. "This is an insult to the people of Cuba. It will tear down the warm friendship built up over the years between the United States and Cuba. I will file a formal protest through diplomatic channels."

Said Campbell, "No comment."

LORD MONTGOMERY'S CRITICISM WON'T STOP U.S. CARRIER BUILDUP

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy plans to go right ahead building and operating aircraft carriers despite uncollected advice to the contrary from Britain's Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery.

The Navy's stand was laid down Monday by James H. Smith Jr., assistant secretary for air, at a Pentagon news conference. The Navy's reaction to Lord Montgomery's public advice that the size and scope of Western navies should be reduced and that no more aircraft carriers should be built because, he said, the day of such big ships was being brought to an end by air power.

Smith, in taking issue with the land warrior's downgrading of sea power, politely explained that the United States Navy's conclusions differed. He said Montgomery looked at the problem of an Englishman, with European responsibilities, whereas American defense officials have to consider the problems of a world which has a lot of its surface covered by vast stretches of water.

Cardinal Spellman GOES TO FAR EAST

NEW YORK (AP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman again this year plans to spend the Christmas season with servicemen in the Far East. His office said Monday he will leave about Dec. 10.

The archbishop of New York also is military vicar of American Catholics in the armed forces.

22 Deaths Attributed To Storm In East U.S.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The season's heaviest salvo of bitter prewinter weather left the nation's eastern half chilled Monday after causing at least 22 deaths, directly or indirectly.

The villain of the weather drama was a deep storm which spun its way from Arkansas to Georgia and out into the Atlantic.

It churned a wave of air turbulence in its path, causing tornadoes late Sunday near the Alabama-Georgia line. The twisters killed a child and injured at least 48 persons.

The big low pressure disturbance drew a flood of sharp, cold winds south and east behind it from Canada. The storm scattered hail in its path, and in its wake poured rain and snow copiously.

It smashed a fishing party's cruiser on a lonely James River beach early Monday and left two members dead of exposure to spray, snow and 26-degree winds.

The chill of the cold snap was a primary factor in a rash of fire deaths during the weekend from Illinois to New England. Three multiple tragedies were traced to defective heaters.

Numbered among the dead were five children at Franklin, Mass., four elderly women at Germantown, Md., and a family of four at Kewanee, Ill.

A woman died when her Rochester, N. Y., house burned. Three fire deaths came when a plane attempted an emergency landing near Stockbridge, Mich. A honeymooning couple were burned in their wrecked car in East Lansing, Mich.

The cold early Monday was sharpest at Pellston, Mich., where a minimum of 10 degrees below zero was recorded.

The high pressure center of the northern cold air mass centered late Monday over the Great Lakes. Snowfall reached 15 inches early Monday on the new West Virginia Turnpike, where autos stalled by the score and more fortunate traffic crawled. Rain hit much of the East Coast.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall, hitting back at his new Democratic counterpart, said today the Democrats have "thrown into the ashcan" their pledge to cooperate with President Eisenhower.

Hall issued a statement replying to Sunday's assertion by the New Democratic national chairman, Paul M. Butler, that the President has shown incapacity to lead his administration or the Republican party.

The White House itself declined comment but Hall spoke up several hours after conferring with Sherman Adams, the President's principal aide.

"There can be no misunderstanding," Hall said, "of the fact that Democrat leaders, now that the 1954 election is over, are determined to undercut President Eisenhower in every possible way."

Butler said Eisenhower had shown a lack of capacity to lead the administration and his party and also that it had become "more and more apparent that a military background is not a full and complete preparation for a chief executive."

Italy Threatens To Break Czech Ties

ROME, Italy (AP)—Italy is prepared to break diplomatic relations with Czechoslovakia, perhaps this week, unless Radio Prague stops its three-year-long anti-Italian broadcasts, sources close to the government said Monday night.

Italy's foreign office announced Tuesday that Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida and his cabinet had resigned.

The resignation opened the way for a new cabinet headed by Yoshida's old rival, Ichiro Hatoyama. It spurs the two conservative parties, Yoshida's Liberal and Hatoyama's Democrats, the ordeal of a general election which might see an upsurge of socialist power.

Iranian Royalty In U. S.

NEW YORK (AP)—Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi and Queen Soraya of Iran arrived by plane Monday on an informal visit in the United States.

The 34-year-old monarch told newsmen he had come "for an informal visit and medical checkup, and possibly to undergo some medical treatment."

Buddies Of Men, Vietnamese Woman Aided, To Help Her

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former crew which was shot down off the Indochina coast Jan. 26, 1945, Mrs. Pagnon told U.S. Embassy officials in Saigon she hid the 11 American airmen, but was arrested by the Japanese after they saw one of the men escape to a U.S. submarine.

After The Associated Press distributed the woman's story, one of the two known survivors of the plane crew, former Ensign William A. Quinn of Elmhurst, Ill., came to the AP office in Chicago, offering verification of her account and details of the subsequent history of the men, six of whom he said were executed by the Japanese.

Pinder said Monday he has established contact with a few of the members of the squadron, which embraced 170 enlisted men and 56 officers. He said his group has written to Mrs. Pagnon but as yet has received no answer, and that it has started inquiries at the State Department about the possibility of helping her recover her child. There was no immediate comment at the State Department.

Arguments Will Start Wednesday

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U. N. Steering Committee beat down Soviet opposition Monday and recommended 10-2, that the Assembly begin urgent debate Wednesday on the case of 11 United States airmen held by Red China on espionage charges.

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief American delegate who had requested immediate action by the 60-nation assembly, told the committee that "we in the United Nations cannot let these men down. They are United Nations men. They were sent to Korea by the United Nations."

Shortly before the Steering Committee met, Lodge and the 15 U. N. Allies of the United States in Korea agreed on a resolution. It was reported they would ask the Assembly to call on Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to use "unrelenting efforts" to obtain the release of the men and report back to the Assembly by Dec. 31.

Britain gave the United States strong support throughout, reflecting here the vigorous denunciation of Red China's action by British Foreign Secretary Sir Anthony Eden in the House of Commons, France, Colombia, Australia, Iceland, Nationalist China, Thailand, Ecuador and Cuba also voted for putting the case before the Assembly.

The Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia, branding the airmen as "spies," voted against it. Burma and Syria abstained, saying the cases should be taken up first by the Korean Armistice Commission. Lodge said five requests for action by that group had been made and nothing had happened.

Jacob A. Malik, Soviet ambassador to Britain, assailed the American request for Assembly action and said it had been done because someone had found it necessary to find an incident to increase international tension.

Lodge immediately answered with a strong rejection of that idea.

"Most of those in this room know Dwight Eisenhower," Lodge said. "They know he wants peace. They know that he and I, carrying out his instructions here, don't want to intensify the cold war."

Lodge lashed at the contention of Malik and Jiri Nosek, Czechoslovak delegate, that the men were spies and had so confessed.

Lodge said that the Soviet admission that the men were captured in uniform revealed "the whole falsity of the Communist stand."

Prime Minister Of Japan Resigns

TOKYO (AP)—The foreign office announced Tuesday that Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida and his cabinet had resigned.

The resignation opened the way for a new cabinet headed by Yoshida's old rival, Ichiro Hatoyama. It spurs the two conservative parties, Yoshida's Liberal and Hatoyama's Democrats, the ordeal of a general election which might see an upsurge of socialist power.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY

The experts and the amateurs have a hundred answers to the juvenile delinquency problem, ranging from better training in the home to bigger police forces in our cities.

The New York City police decided not long ago to test the idea of the bigger force, and the city's police commissioner now has come up with the results of the experiment.

Authorities chose a section of New York known as East Harlem, a tumble-down tenement zone jammed with a mixture of races, an area where crime ran rampant. The normal complement of police guarding its populace is 186. Ten weeks ago some 250 extra policemen were added.

In the two and a half months that followed, major crime in the area was reduced nearly 50 per cent. The reinforced police battalions covering the section made arrests in 60 per cent of the cases that occurred, against an arrest record of just 20 per cent earlier.

Thus New York showed that more police could indeed cut the heavy crime rate, much of which is accounted for by juveniles. The uniformed cop in plain sight on the beat is a strong deterrent to wrongdoing.

But to achieve this striking reduction, note that the city had to boost its force about 150 per cent in an area only about a mile square.

Not every part of New York has so heavy an incidence of crime as East Harlem, but there are plenty like it in that city and most others in America. Imagine the cost of more than doubling the police force in all such crime-ridden areas.

The New York police commissioner told New Yorkers they can have "peace and security" in their homes "if they are willing to pay for it." He may indeed have demonstrated the effectiveness of a bigger police force, but it's a grave question whether New York or any other U. S. community can foot the huge bill involved.

Besides, necessary though it be, discouraging potential criminals is just part of the task. The bigger and more challenging part is finding a way to build community life and raise young men and women so they will not be potential criminals.

New York's interesting experiment has only emphasized the magnitude of this job.

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"Down with office Christmas parties!" Each year about now this crusade cry rings out across the land, and lurid pictures are painted of wild pre-Yuletide orgies indulged in by the white collar peasantry before they board the last bus home on Christmas eve.

Sin in foreign boudoirs always holds a certain attraction. But to Mrs. Jones the average housewife, even the thought that a holly wreath has been hung up in the workaday atmosphere of her husband's office conjures up scenes of far wilder abandon.

She has heard all about those revolting office Christmas parties. Here is what she imagines:

Promptly at five o'clock the office desks sprout leaves and turn into tall oak trees hung with mistletoe. Champagne begins to bubble up magically from the office water cooler.

A door opens and out comes the boss, dressed in gossamers. Over his shoulders are draped two giggling stenographers, wearing nothing but bright red lipstick vine leaves in their hair, and a flimsy white veil.

"Here, Jones, have one on me," cries the boss, tossing him the prettier girl Jones, who by now is clad in a gossamer, too, catches her easily.

The other men and girls in the office, all decked out in gossamers and veils, then join hands and circle the water cooler in a game of ring-around-a-rosy, pausing now and then to dip their warm muzzles in the cool bubbling champagne.

Hidden pipes play a mad lullaby, the laughter and the songs grow louder, the gossamers pursue the veils in a merry chase across the desk tops.

Jones catches him and holds the cooing struggling stenographer, and panting hard murmurs, "Oh, Smith, you never told me you had freckles on your shoulders. Let me count them."

"Oh, we're right under the mistletoe," Mrs. Jones, she whispers, "but aren't you married?"

"What a marriage?" says Jones, bending to her upturned face, the music swells, the champagne bubbles higher, higher, higher.

"Now here is what actually happens at the office Christmas party,"

The boss calls in the fellows half an hour before quitting time. "It's been a good year, boys," he says, "and I want you to join me in a little celebration."

He gets out some paper cups and a bottle of Old Granddaddy. He motions the bottom of each cup with a few drops from the bottle, then fills the cups to the brim with water and says he's sorry he forgot to get in any ice.

"Cheers," he says. The boys gulp down their drink then stand around with their cups in their hands like Oliver Twist waiting for more porridge.

"Merry Christmas," says the boss, banging in the cork back in the bottle. "Take the rest of the day off."

So the gang troop out together, go down to the nearest bar and have a couple of rounds while they feelingly discuss what a grand old something or other the boss is.

"Well, any boss is better than none," says one. They all laugh and start home.

"And where have you been, big shot?" asks the wife as Jones comes through the door.

"Oh, the fellows at the office just had a little party," he replies amiably. The next moment Jones feels a high-heeled shoe beating a tattoo on his skull, and he hears his wife's voice crying:

"Well, don't think you can come feeling home to me, you beast! I know what you've been up to—and that smirking Miss Smith!"

What I say is, fellows, we can't win. Too many wives now believe in the legend of the wild office Christmas party. Even if all us desk jockeys quit our jobs and went to work in factories, you know what would happen? Some blue-nosed dreamer would start yelling a new slogan.

Down with factory Christmas parties!

Old Jokes—Coexistence—Safe Return?—Lots of Sitters—PX Problems—Last Lap

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—There were some ancient whippers on a story told in this column recently about Aneurin Bevan and the late Ernest Bevin of the British Labor Party. According to this story, relayed from London, when an associate argued that Mr. Bevin was really his worst enemy, Ernest Bevin had commented tartly: "Not while I'm alive."

Old timers in Washington recall that this same story was told in the early days of the New Deal.

The late Senator "Cotton Ed" Smith of South Carolina was supposed to have made the crack about President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Anyone having still earlier versions of this same Joe Miller is invited to contribute. It will probably develop that the crack was first uttered about Julius Caesar, by Brutus.

AIR FORCE SECRETARY Harold E. Talbot gives this definition of "peaceful coexistence":

You exist if you're too tough to be taken. You perish if you're weak and unwarlike.

On the other hand, Defense Department officials maintain that Communism, reporting to the Free World fringe benefits are necessary to keep the lower-paid uniformed men from being hoodlums.

Businessmen then like to point out that the Eisenhower administration got a letter from his wife, Madison is dedicated to removing still in Hungary, saying that she had government competition with private enterprise, so why aren't all these government retail outlets abolished?

So better has this argument become that an official of the National Retail Dry Goods Association rephrased the word to Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbot, asking him what they wanted with refrigerators.

Ted's grandmother says that the way her daughter is "spoiling" him is causing friction in the family.

The other day, for example, he ran off with a cousin's water pistol. His mother spent 20 minutes in futile pleading with him to return it. Then he came back, and she hit him. She hit him, and then she attacked her sister-in-law as "weak and spineless."

Ted's grandmother writes, "My daughter is afraid of this boy. I don't understand it as I never had disobedience from my children. They did what they were told. They were good children."

Perhaps this daughter who was such a good, obedient child dares not oppose her son lest she appear "bad" in his eyes.

Does this idea seem absurd? It isn't. Many of us fear to oppose children lest we lose "goodness" in their eyes. Though we are not conscious of it, we are still working out the effects of childhood training that established us as "good" when we surrendered our wishes and condemned us as "bad" when we defied them.

So it might be profitable for Ted's mother to try to remember what actually went on in her mind as a little girl under punishment for badness.

I suspect that it was a very painful experience that induced great fear of future isolation and abandonment. I have the idea that this fear is her fear of opposing Ted, and that she dares not take any firm action toward him lest it produce the old painful condemnation of her as a "bad" girl.

THE UNITED NATIONS headquarters in New York has been getting far more wear and tear than had originally been estimated, according to its Director of General Services David B. Vaughan.

He explains this is due to the large number of visitors, the guided tours and the extensive use of lounge areas. This has caused furniture and equipment to wear out eight to 10 times faster than had been expected.

UN has just had to appropriate $170,000 to replace worn-out fixtures.

DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE has been having a tough fight to keep its post exchanges and commissaries for service personnel. Most of the opposition comes from local merchants near military bases. They object to the competition and the cut prices which armed service stores can furnish, because they don't have to pay taxes, rent, or insurance.

Ted's grandmother writes, "My daughter is afraid of this boy. I don't understand it as I never had disobedience from my children. They did what they were told. They were good children."

Perhaps this daughter who was such a good, obedient child dares not oppose her son lest she appear "bad" in his eyes.

Does this idea seem absurd? It isn't. Many of us fear to oppose children lest we lose "goodness" in their eyes. Though we are not conscious of it, we are still working out the effects of childhood training that established us as "good" when we surrendered our wishes and condemned us as "bad" when we defied them.

So it might be profitable for Ted's mother to try to remember what actually went on in her mind as a little girl under punishment for badness.

I suspect that it was a very painful experience that induced great fear of future isolation and abandonment. I have the idea that this fear is her fear of opposing Ted, and that she dares not take any firm action toward him lest it produce the old painful condemnation of her as a "bad" girl.

This is not an unusual problem for a parent who has been subjected to severe and unfeeling controls as a child. We all want our child to regard us as "good."

If we have been trained to believe that compliance to others' wishes is "good" and any opposition to them is "bad," the compliance is all we can give our child until we are ready to examine ourselves—and stop using him as the butt of our fears.

Ted is a good friend to his mother—perhaps her first real one. He does not like her compliance. By his "spoiled" behavior, he is refusing to encourage it.

In his own way, he is saying to her, "Mother, you are no longer a little girl to live on your parents' definitions of 'goodness' and 'badness.' For both our sakes, start making your own. Take this water pistol episode, for example. Was it 'goodness' to you to subject me to hate today because you dared not take a toy from me?"

Ted, the good child, is going to force his mother to get rid of her ghosts.

Secretary Talbot wrote back that many Air Force officers and enlisted men were married and had families, and that they were entitled to just as good things as any other people in America.

YOUTHFUL Assistant Secretary of Health Education and Welfare Roswell B. Perkins offers this formula for becoming a successful leader and government administrator:

"It is my firm conviction," he told a meeting of students in New York recently, "that the greatest single key to success is to look on every problem that comes to your desk not only from the position where you sit—but also from the position of the last man in whose lav the problem will fall."

The salesclerk who intentionally annoys a customer while putting away merchandise, talking to another clerk about her last night's date, or feuding with another employee creates ill will not only toward herself but toward her store.

A smiling "I'll be with you in just a minute" takes so little effort for the good will it makes.

Proper Diet Sans Alcohol Will Help Cirrhosis Victims

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.

Written for NEA Service
Cirrhosis of the liver, a subject on which a number of inquiries have been received, is by no means a rare condition. In North America it is present in two or three out of 100 of those who die and is higher in some other parts of the world.

In many cases, however, it produces few if any symptoms and may be present but entirely unsuspected all during life.

The cause of this disease of the liver cannot always be identified. In at least half of the cases, however, it appears to be associated with long continued alcoholism. The word "associated" is used advisedly since it may not be the alcohol itself which causes the trouble, so much as the poor diet of those who substitute alcohol for a balanced diet.

INDEED THERE are many reasons to believe that nutritional deficiency is an important influence in developing cirrhosis since so many of those who develop this disorder have eaten their meals haphazardly and have taken insufficient amounts of meat and dairy products.

Symptoms of cirrhosis may be few or practically absent. Sometimes cirrhosis is associated with considerable loss of weight, after months or years of loss of appetite, nausea and vomiting and bloating of the abdomen are quite likely to appear. Low fever and mental changes are not unusual. In the advanced case the diagnosis is not too difficult from the symptoms and special tests but the early signs of cirrhosis may be hard to relate to the underlying difficulty.

TREATMENT has been improved. Even in those who have a moderately advanced disease, rest in bed, the prohibition of alcohol, a diet rich in proteins and vegetables, perhaps supplemented with certain vitamins and drugs, may help enormously.

There have even been some surgical procedures developed aimed at relieving some of the results of cirrhosis.

IT IS NOT accurate to minimize the importance of this disease. Nevertheless the outlook is frequently not as dim as was formerly considered to be the case. In fact in those with slight or moderate involvement of the liver and when the condition is recognized early and properly treated, the outlook is pretty good on the average.

For those with more advanced and serious cirrhosis proper dietary treatment and other measures have improved the outlook. Although one cannot guarantee a successful method of preventing cirrhosis is almost certain that an adequate diet, particularly among those who indulge in too many alcoholic beverages, would reduce the frequency of this condition.

Try Chocolate Mocha Sauce With Christmas Ice Cream

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

From the New Boston Inn in the Berkshires we just received a miniature Christmas cruet filled with truly wonderful chocolate mocha sauce. It is one of them, run butterscotch sauce is another. Both will be perfect spooned over the Christmas ice cream.

Rosmond Chapin, who owns the inn at New Boston, Massachusetts, with her husband (it was built in 1760), is one of America's great cooks. One of the other delicacies she put up in containers wrapped in green and red are brandy liver pate, cocktail sauce for sea food, chutney and mince-meat—all remarkably tempting. So if you want to put a touch of New England into your Christmas, the New Boston Inn specialties will do it deliciously.

Marion Young Taylor's excellent new cookbook "Cooking for Comforts" (Barrows—$2.95) can help make Christmas more fun. Both as a gift for a friend and an inspiration to yourself, it's an important contribution to more pleasurable living.

Here's a wintertime menu suggestion from "Cooking for Comforts": Tomato and sauerkraut cocktail, garlic strips, Roquefort pork chops, cinnamon apple rings, potato pancakes, sesame salad, pumpernickel bread, baked peaches with mince-meat, coffee.

Sometime during the holidays, enjoy this recipe from Marion Young Taylor's book (Mrs. Taylor is mother of twins and a well-known radio personality).

Apricot-Stuffed Pork Chops
Buy double pork chops and have the butcher cut pockets in them. Wipe dry, salt and pepper, and stuff the pockets with chopped spiced apricots. Fasten the pockets with picks (does this make them "pocketed"?). Arrange the chops in a greased baking dish, chutney and mince-meat—all remarkably tempting. So if you want to put a touch of New England into your Christmas, the New Boston Inn specialties will do it deliciously.

In-Out Jail Mixup Break For Inmate

LOS ANGELES (AP)—It was in again-out again for Jernigan (Jernigan) and county jailers are red-faced.

Until the mixup there reposed in the county jail one John H. Jernigan and one John H. Jernigan.

A writ of habeas corpus came along Sunday night ordering the release of Jernigan, 43, pending an appearance Dec. 9 in Burbank on a drunk driving charge. The jailers mistakenly released Jernigan, 25, waiting to be taken to San Quentin prison on a robbery conviction.

Later, learning of their mistake, jailers released Jernigan and sheriff's deputies started looking for Jernigan.

Junior Red Cross Shops For Gifts For State School

One of the many projects of the Junior Red Cross Council at the Jacksonville high school this Christmas season will be within the coming week to purchase Christmas gifts for ten children at the Lincoln State School and Colony.

This personal shopping tour will be completed by Saturday so as to have the gifts packaged and received at the school by Dec. 13. This is brought about by a request sent to the Morgan County Red Cross chapter and being presented to the Council members who will shop for the gifts, the Red Cross furnishing necessary funds. None of the gifts will cost over two dollars and must be of a nature to stand wear but not be in any way dangerous.

Mrs. Geraldine Godeby is the Morgan County Junior Red Cross chairman and the adviser at the high school is Mrs. Ruth Wade. Members of the Council who will each purchase a gift in the shopping tour are: Beverly Hicks, president; Frances Gunn, vice president; Harriett Lee, secretary; Kay Ferris, treasurer; Judy May, reporter; Paul Masick, Carol Teyman, Carl Marquard, Marianne Mitchell and Jim DePrates.

The Council, besides conducting projects of its own, acts as public relation contacts in obtaining volunteer service from other groups in helping with Junior Red Cross work. The Council has been instrumental for a number of years in arranging for a good number of the acts from the annual school minstrel to be repeated for the patients at the Jacksonville State Hospital.

This year they have made arrangements with the Home Economics class at the high school to bake cookies which, as soon as the local chapter received final instruction, will be sent to a veterans hospital in the middle west that does not receive the outside attention and volunteer services as do other such institutions.

The Junior Red Cross is most active in supplying cars and providing rides for blood donors that need transportation when the Bloodmobile visits Jacksonville. They also provide sitters for parents who need them at such times as gratuity.

A membership drive is underway for more members in the Council. Any of the above members or the adviser will be glad to give information concerning the unit to prospective Junior Red Cross Council members.

The LOOKLESS OOF is a retailer married to last year's business — to last year's stock, last year's ideas, last year's problems.

He can't see an opportunity two inches away, and wouldn't know a trend from a banana.

What he has learned from experience is what to do in case the past should ever return.

Fortunately the oof is a rare creature.

Most retailers know that selling means keeping in tune with the times.

They're sensitive to changes in customer preferences, and re-stock their shelves accordingly.

They're quick to take advantage of manufacturers' newspaper advertising—by featuring the product in their own store displays... and by including the brand in their own newspaper ads.

Since they themselves advertise in newspapers, they know that any manufacturer who does the same is really in earnest — and really is out to win the market.

A modern retailer knows that the best advertising is the kind that reaches all his customers.

And he likes the manufacturer who thinks the same.

All business is local... and so are all newspapers!

Pittsfield Streets Almost Decorated For Christmas

PITTSFIELD — The Pittsfield Chamber of Commerce with Walter Granstaff, chairman of the Christmas activities committee, have about completed the decorations in the business section of the city. With the assistance of the Jaycees many evergreen trees have been placed around the light poles all decorated with colored lights. The decorations were extended this year to include the business section in West Pittsfield.

Granstaff states that Santa's house will be placed in the north-east corner of the Court House Park ready for the arrival of Santa himself on Friday, Dec. 10. He will arrive this year in an airplane, and upon alighting will transfer to the city's Christmas sled and drive through the streets of the city with Ed Lowry's prize winning Shetland ponies drawing the sleigh. As usual there will be treats for the children of the community during the two weeks following Santa's arrival.

PIPELINE TO ADVENTURE

DETROIT (AP)—Ten men who inspect pipelines between Detroit and Big Rapids say life can be exciting. Included, have been forest and field fires, auto accidents and other emergencies. They've even had to rush expectant mothers to the hospital.

In addition, they have to contend with nervous bulls, goats, and farmers, who don't like trespassers.

Heat needed to melt ice would be sufficient to raise the temperature of the resulting water nearly 80 degrees centigrade.

Fight The Wild River

by EDMUNDS CLAUSSEN

© 1954, W. Edmunds Clausen. Prior copyright, Standard Publications, Inc.

CAPTAIN CROTCH stood hard by the rail on the port side of the weather-stained General Heath and wondered what was on the minds of the lusty river crowd. There was more to their clamoring for deck passage than showed on the surface.

This year of 1862 was a cruel one in the great war. Despite the virtual isolation of Arizona, the territory was rocking beneath repercussions of baffling politics and roaring artillery.

Irvine Crotch had come around the Horn in '49, following the brawling gold years with an absorbing interest until the West was in his blood. The lower Colorado basin occupied every major interest in his existence.

Even now the precious metal cast its gleam through these turbulent days. A new discovery at La Paz was causing miners to forsake Gila City, which lay a few miles east of the confluence of the Gila and Colorado Rivers. They were desert rats grown old since El Dorado days, some were war dodgers and some were young men with hope in their hearts. All of them were men without women, and dissipating their strength in a vortex of greed.

The General Heath could take no one else aboard, and Crotch had steamed a half mile above the Yuma landing to the fast for the night. Even so a dozen Gila City deserters were knee deep in the swirling river, demanding passage.

"We're comin' aboard!" Crotch's lids dropped lower over his eyes. "You try that and you won't get far."

"We got gold to pay and we're going upriver." The captain studied the darkly bearded face with a half-amused glint masking his gaze. Unconsciously his fingers stroked a lump of newly-washed gold within his pocket. Many nuggets as large as walnuts were coming from La Paz gravel bars. It was the best strike the captain had seen since the California boom.

"Sorry, how? See if Jamison can't accommodate you." His Amador's crowded with men.

"Then you'll wait till next trip—or walk."

CROTCH swung his gaze to the cargo deck where for an hour Cal Dreyfus had been shooting his pistol into a big river willow that hugged the water's edge. "Dreyfus! You been looking for a target?"

Dreyfus glanced up and smiled lamely. He was a hawk-faced man without much humor, a raw-boned miner with great hands. By some ironic chance his awkwardness made men think of Lincoln. "To look like the President didn't boost a man's prestige at the moment."

Dreyfus leveled his pistol at Belaire, the rowdy in the river who had done most of the talking for the Gila City crowd. Dreyfus drew the trigger, laying his shot beside Belaire's ear.

What Belaire didn't understand was that if he forced his way aboard the Cocopah decks-ladders would storm him. He'd be lucky to get rid of his doctors and nurses short of a month.

The clamoring Gila City miners walloped back to the shore-

All afternoon the fight had simmered. And now a miner roared, "You, too, Captain!"

line. Belaire was the last to turn. Dreyfus sprawled his spare form across the pine boxes marked plainly "Mining Machinery." Crotch suspected what they actually contained. A few weeks ago he had brought them upriver from Port Isabel consigned to the quartermaster at Fort Yuma. Today they were being reshipped through Fernand Modest, the General Heath's agent at Yuma landing. The descriptive printing had been added since Crotch last had seen the cases.

DREYFUS used a long-barreled muzzle-loaded pistol that carried a round ball. All afternoon he had been casting these balls with a bullet-mold and lead. A flash of fine rifle powder now stood on the case and from this he was measuring a charge into each cylinder. He worked with the studied determination of a man intent on mastering his craft. But Crotch thought, Dreyfus was no killer, no professional. He was just even a rowdy scrapper—the handle of his gold pick had left its shape on his fingers. Hard work was bending his back.

The captain was dressed in dark shirt and trousers. He wore a battered marine cap perched at a rakish angle on top of his red head. He was stockily built, his muscles tempered by the river, his skin bronzed by the merciless sun of the lower territory. Rust-colored whistlers bristled from his leathery cheeks, giving him a certain fierceness, even when not in anger. But above all it was his eyes that drove home an impact; they were penetrating and clear.

He said tightly, "Dreyfus, it's not my business. But what's all the shooting about?"

TOO late Crotch regretted his question. Dreyfus sobered at once and, characteristically, his words were dogmatic and final. "Way things're headed a man oughtn't let his aim go stale."

The faces of the others grouped nearby turned belligerent at Dreyfus's talk. News of the Second Manassas had just come through; it was unpleasant for men like Dreyfus from Pennsylvania, and Crotch who had been reared on Nantucket. On the other hand, General Jackson, the already-legendary fighter of the Shenandoah, had suffered losses the South could ill afford. It laid a sourness over men of both sides so that even the excitement of La Paz placers could barely hold their tempers safely stopped.

Somebody growled sourly, "Old Abe, the ugly ape!" Without warning, without the slightest cue to his intent, Dreyfus wheeled and threw his fist into the nearest man. Now they were all leaping at Dreyfus. He was a slow man that had lost his sap to the desert, but his muscles were packed down solid by his gold pick.

Dreyfus met them head-on, without backing, sending his pile-driver fists into hairy faces. There was blood in their eyes as they bore down on him. A man didn't have to love the South to whale the tar out of a Lincoln sympathizer. The President, at the outset of war, along with his near-sighted War Office, had withdrawn the few dragoon companies stationed in remote posts. It had the effect of turning the Apaches loose on Arizona. And now, as soon as the mob succeeded in pulling Dreyfus to the deck, they would boot out his brains.

Crotch moved in, trying to find a place beside Dreyfus. "Break it up!" he yelled. All afternoon the fight had simmered. It had come, politics or not. And now a miner roared, "You, too, Captain!"

He came after Crotch with an ax handle he had picked up between the cargo. His blow caught Crotch on the temple, opening a gash above the eye and tearing away part of the eyebrow. That one wild second put desperate-ness into the fight. Crotch drove at the man in blind rage, grappling with him and bending his arm until the man screamed. As the fingers released their club Crotch drove his fist smashing through in an uppercut. It dropped the miner to his knees.

THEY came howling down him a black wedge. Crotch took their hard blows, felt the weight of their fury descend across his shoulders. But he now held the ax handle within his own fingers. He flung it about at the weaving heads.

When their vigor was spent, the crowd fell back, leaving three of their number flat on the deck. Crotch stared at them with his lungs pumping from the exertion. One of the miners had an eye already turning black, another lay on his back with blood tracing its way across his face. The injustice of the whole thing, Crotch reflected, was that such brawls were invariably blamed on the Confederates. These men were simply malcontents, rag-tag and scum of the river. The true Southerner had hurried home to don his uniform, was fighting his cause bravely. For them Crotch had the greatest respect, and for their faith in a cause in which they so stoutly believed.

Still Crotch's heart tripped faster when he discovered Dreyfus standing on his feet.

Michelson New Pitt Grid Coach

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Smiling Johnny Michelson, a protégé of the Old Scot, Dr. Jock Sutherland, Monday was named head football coach at the University of Pittsburgh. The contract is for three years. Salary terms were not disclosed.

Michelson, former head coach of the National Football League Pittsburgh Steelers, succeeds Lowell "Red" Dawson who resigned Nov. 16. Dawson was hospitalized with a heart condition several weeks before his resignation.

The selection of the new 38-year-old coach was made at a news conference called by Capt. Tom Hamilton, Pitt's athletic director and interim coach during the 1954 season. Pitt won four and lost five—all the victories coming under Hamilton.

The selection of Michelson was no surprise. Like Sutherland, who coached some of Pitt's greatest teams, he is a stickler for training and condition.

Michelson starred at quarterback under Sutherland for the years 1935-37.

His Steelers' teams 1948-51 won 20, lost 26 and tied 2. He returned to Pitt in 1952 as a member of the staff under Dawson.

Autopsy Shows Redskins' Tackle Had Suffered Heart Attack Before Game

WASHINGTON (AP)—An autopsy disclosed Monday that Dave Sparks, Washington Redskins lineman, died of coronary thrombosis, a condition that was aggravated when he played his usual aggressive game against the Cleveland Browns Sunday.

Dr. William Weiburn, coroner of nearby Arlington County, Va., where Sparks collapsed and died two hours after the game, said the 26-year-old football player "would be alive today" if he had gone to a doctor before the game.

Although Sparks had no history of a heart ailment, Weiburn said the autopsy showed he had suffered an attack 12 to 24 hours before Sunday's National Football League game.

"He probably just thought he had indigestion. He must have had chest pains," Weiburn said. "The real tragedy is that Sparks would have been completely recovered within several months if the condition had been diagnosed."

A resident of Lorain, Ohio, Sparks starred with the University of South Carolina and the San Francisco 49ers before joining the Redskins this fall. He had been a standout on both offense and defense, alternating between tackle and guard. A 238-pounder, he stood 6 feet 11 inches.

Presumably, the coroner said, if Sparks had taken part in any strenuous physical exercise, he would have been similarly stricken. The coroner said the only cure for an attack such as that which Sparks experienced before Sunday's game is rest.

Sparks died in bed for a while after he had gone to a friend's house in Arlington following the game. But he got up after a bit and ate a spaghetti dinner. He collapsed shortly afterwards.

The club's owner, George Preston Marshall, said Sparks' death was "an awful shock."

"I talked to him in the dressing room after the game," Marshall said. "I asked how he felt and he said he was a little sore in the back but he was all right otherwise."

Coach Joe Kuharich said Sparks "looked as normal as anyone else" after the game. "There was nothing to indicate there was anything wrong."

NEW YORK (AP)—The Chicago White Sox Monday traded first baseman Ferris Fain, third baseman Jack Phillips and pitcher Leo Christa to Detroit for first baseman Walt Drogo, outfielder Bob Nieman and pitcher Ted Gray.

It was the second major deal of the day by White Sox General Manager Frank Lane. Earlier in the day he made a seven-man swap with the Baltimore Orioles.

Fain, 32, batted 302 in 55 games, being sidelined from June 27 until the end of the season because of a torn cartilage in his right knee.

Phillips, a former New York Yankee and Pittsburgh Pirate player, who also has played first base, was purchased by the White Sox from Hollywood of the Pacific Coast League after the 1954 season. He batted about 300 and was the most valuable player in the PCL.

Christa, a righthander, had a 24-7 record with Atlanta of the Southern Assn.

Drogo, 31, a 6 foot 5, former Boston Red Sox player, hit 281 and drove 44 runs in 107 games with the Tigers.

Nieman, 27, is a righthanded hitter, who played with the St. Louis Browns before he was traded to Detroit in 1952. He batted 263 in 91 games with the Tigers last season.

Gray, a 30-year-old lefthander who has been handicapped by arm trouble, had a 3-5 record with the Tigers in 1954. He had spent his entire baseball career with the Detroit organization.

Monday morning the White Sox acquired catcher Clint Courtney, pitcher Bob Chakales, and infielder Jim Brideweser from Baltimore for catcher Matt Batts, pitcher Don Johnson, infielder Fred Marsh and pitcher Don Ferrarese.

America's Doubles Team Wins Meet

MELBOURNE, Australia (Tuesday)—(AP)—America's tennis forces moved on to Brisbane Tuesday with the best double team in the world and with revitalized hopes of finding the complete answer for recovery of the Davis Cup.

U. S. Champion Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert proved themselves masters of any combination Australia can field by coming from behind Monday to subdue Rex Hartwig and Mervyn Rose for the Victorian championship, 4-6, 5-7, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2. Previously they beat Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall in the semifinals.

The American duo played well within themselves in defeating Hartwig and Rose and probably crushed any hopes these Wimbledon champions might have entertained for getting in the challenge round at Sydney Dec. 27-29. Hoad and Rosewall are cinches to play the double role.

Bill Talbert, U. S. non-playing captain, said the team will get down to hard work immediately for the interzone matches with Sweden Dec. 16-18.

It virtually is certain Trabert and Seixas will play in both singles and doubles against the Swedes although Hamilton Richardson, the third member of the U. S. squad, has shown he is capable of stepping in in case of emergency.

Jacksonville Awarded Sectional Tourney

Jacksonville will be a Sectional Tourney site for the second year in a row. This word was received by Jacksonville School principal John Agger. The tourney will be held the 8, 9 and 10 of March.

The local sectional will be made up of winners of the Franklin, Mt. Sterling, Pleasant Hill and Quincy Regional meets. The regionals will be held March 1-4.

The district for this area will be held at Ashland, Franklin has been awarded the Regional tourney for this immediate area.

Master of Ceremonies Glenn Williams gave a short talk outlining the plans for next year. Williams, who is head of the district baseball program, informed the group a plan was in the "talking stage" to have a league for the boys just out of the Pony League who don't have an opportunity to play baseball until they are old enough and big enough for the legion team.

This sort of "farm system" for the legion club will give these 14 and 15 year-olds a chance to continue with the hardball. This, the fact Jacksonville doesn't provide a league for this age group of youngsters, has been a sore spot with local baseball enthusiasts for some time.

Williams introduced Past Commander Slagel and Commander Brennan who gave short talks telling how the Legion feels about the program. Chaplain Reed was called upon and he said a few words. Manager B. L. Woodward, assistant manager Joseph Shanahan and Pat Dowling also said a few words.

Players attending were: Jim Woodward, Bill Lewis, Skip Dyer, Pat Dowling, Joe Shanahan, Jack Fairfield, Larry Scott, Denny Woodward, Max Roegge and Wayne Smith. Shanahan and Roegge are the only two who won't be back next year. They will have passed the age limit.

Trotting Assn. Adopts Uniform Classification

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The U. S. Trotting Assn. Monday adopted a new uniform national classification system for trotters and pacers appearing on almost 500 American tracks.

The plan, approved at the closing session of the annual meeting of association directors, calls for 10 classes ranging from free-for-all down to class D.

Under the system, each track would have its own speed rating, and horses would be moved up or down in class on a basis of their last six performances. Rating of the tracks will be started next week.

Several proposed rule changes or amendments submitted by Harness Tracks of America, Inc., a mutual track organization, were referred to a five-man committee to be named later. The committee will study the proposals and report back at the spring meeting March 13-14 in Orlando, Fla.

One proposal by the mutual group would outlaw strikes of trainers and drivers at any track, and make arbitration mandatory. The USTA directors said they thought all the proposals should be aired further before taking action.

The board, in addition to the classification plan, approved more than a score of rule changes, most of them minor in nature.

The new rules would: require all extended pari-mutuel meetings to carry accident insurance on drivers; require program directors at all tracks to be licensed by the USTA; require split samples of saliva and urine to be taken, with half forwarded to the laboratory and half retained for further check if necessary.

Permit as many as 12 horses to start in overnighters on half-mile tracks (present limit is 8); require use of a starting gate at all tracks where pari-mutuel betting is allowed.

Missouri Upsets Indiana 64-61

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Missouri's rangy Tigers gobbled up the rebounds Monday night and upset Indiana, ranked No. 6 nationally, in The Associated Press pre-season poll, 64-61. Forward Norman Stewart's 16 points topped four Missourians who scored in double figures.

The game was a rouser, with the score tied 11 times and the lead changing 6 times before Missouri won in the last 5½ minutes.

Don Schlundt, I.U.'s All-America center, was high scorer for both teams with 25 points although he was benched over five minutes with four personals.

Missouri's Big Seven representatives, beaten 77-49 by Illinois Saturday night, got off to a slow start against Indiana's defending Big Ten champions but finished with a rush.

Indiana led 35-32 at the half and 46-36 after 4½ minutes of the second period. Missouri caught up at 47-47 only 3½ minutes later.

The 6-foot-9 Reiter and 6-foot-4 Norman Stewart controlled the rebounds for Missouri although Reiter was in and out of the game after committing four fouls on the 6-10 Schlundt in the first 10 minutes. He fouled out with one second left.

Schlundt also committed four personals on Reiter and sat out most of the last eight minutes.

Hospital Full -- Gorgeous George In Maternity Ward

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Professional wrestler Gorgeous George entered a hospital Monday for observation and treatment of a ring injury. To find a place for him, the crowded institution had to put him in the maternity ward.

His physician, Dr. David Shapiro, who said the wrestler had a severe hip injury extending to the inner surface of his right thigh.

George said he was injured in a match at Amarillo, Tex. last Thursday night.

Abe Saperstein Puts Trotters 'On The Road'

CHICAGO (AP)—Abe Saperstein, who used showmanship to parlay his Harlem Globetrotters into a lush basketball enterprise, now is in the real show business.

The diminutive cage impresario of international fame Monday conducted a final rehearsal for his "Harlem Globetrotter Varieties 1955," a 10-act, 2½-hour vaudeville show which hits the road Tuesday.

Actually, the only connection between Abe's stage troupe and his globe-trotting and mirth-provoking hardwood court wizards is one act—the accordion player of ex-Yale star Tony Lavelli.

Lavelli, an All-America in 1948-49, with a four-season collegiate scoring record of 1,964 points, probably hastened Abe's successful experiment with halftime entertainment of a vaudeville nature.

Playing with a team which opposed the Globetrotters on their junks, Lavelli—who majored in music at Yale—squeezed his music box artistically between halves in big cities and hamlets.

Gradually, Saperstein added more and more variety acts until his eight-act unit accompanying the Trotters on an European tour last summer was so well-received that the idea of an independent stage show was born.

The troupe opens in Rockford, Ill. Tuesday night, then begins an eight-week tour, hitting one-night stands in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Montana, Vancouver and the West Coast.

Besides Lavelli, the entertainers include comedy acrobats, a juggler, dancers and a mind-reading act.

Tony DeMarco Out Of Saturday's Go

BOSTON (AP)—Tony DeMarco, 22, Boston welterweight contender Monday withdrew from his scheduled 10-round nationally televised fight Saturday night with Joe Miceli of New York because of a cut on the chin suffered in training last week.

Promoters Sam Silverman and Ray Arcel said they have offered Carmen Basilio of Syracuse, N. Y., $12,000 to take DeMarco's place on the Boston card.

FAN BREEZES

BY BILL MERRIS

The local American Legion Post honored its American Legion baseball team last night with a supper and banquet in the Post Home. The members of last year's team, its managers and officials of the Legion were on hand for the occasion.

Master of Ceremonies Glenn Williams gave a short talk outlining the plans for next year. Williams, who is head of the district baseball program, informed the group a plan was in the "talking stage" to have a league for the boys just out of the Pony League who don't have an opportunity to play baseball until they are old enough and big enough for the legion team.

"Big Board" volume climbed to $6,600,000 par value from $4,920,000 Friday; and $6,221,000 a week ago. It was the third most active session of the year.

In new financing, Illinois Central Railroad will offer $8,700,000 of equipment certificates at competitive bidding Dec. 21. Proceeds will cover about 75 per cent of an order for new rolling stock.

PERSISTENT SELLING FORCES ALL GRAINS LOWER; TRADE ACTIVE

By WILLIAM FERRIS
CHICAGO (AP)—Persistent selling through commission houses cut values of all grains but nearby wheat futures on the Board of Trade Monday. The market was active on the decline.

Soybeans recorded the heaviest losses, running to a little more than five cents. Elsewhere the declines didn't run to as much as two cents but the market had a distinctly weak undertone.

Wheat closed 3/4 lower to 1 1/4 higher, corn 1 to 1 1/4 lower, oats 1 1/2-1 3/4 lower, rye unchanged to 1 1/4 lower, sorghams 3 1/4-5 1/2 lower and laid 5 to 38 cents a hundred pounds higher.

During the morning the market held up quite well under the steady liquidation. It wasn't until after the noon hour that prices really began to crack. At that time the market had eased to a level where some stop loss orders were uncovered.

As a result of the drop, sorghams closed 18 to 28 1/2 cents under the seasonal highs. The decline has come about without any heavy movement of cash beans to market. Receipts today totaled only 17 cars.

There wasn't much in the news to account for the selloff, either in soybeans or anything else. Brokers put it down to liquidation by holders who had either grown tired and discouraged at maintaining their positions or had profits extending over a six-month period. The latter could sell and take a lower capital gains tax than would have been the case if they had sold within six months after their original purchases.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market pounded out a strong advance Monday on heavy volume and continued pushing toward a new all-time high.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up $1.50 to $150.40—only $7.30 from the historic high of Sept. 3, 1929.

Railroads were a buoyant feature of trading, but almost all divisions joined in the rise. Gains in the range of $1 to $4 points in key sections of the list were frequent. There were many small minus signs in the list, but no area was backward.

It was nearly 15 months ago that the stock market started its great drive ahead. In the five weeks since the national elections, the market has shot up with renewed buoyancy on heavy volume.

Buying has come from all sides—pension funds, institutions, investors, speculators, and the general public.

Monday was the third session of unusual strength following a moderate two-day reaction.

Volume mounted to 3,960,000 shares, only 30,000 shares short of the peak of the year which was the best in four years. Friday's total was 3,790,000 shares.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced $1.50—making a total gain of $4.10 in three days. It closed at $150.40, best since Sept. 23, 1929, when it stood at $160.80.

Each of the components reached new highs—industrials up $1.50 to $205.10, railroads up $1.60 to $115.50, and utilities up 70 cents at $68.10.

Trading was heavy on the American Stock Exchange at 1,070,000 shares. That compares with 930,000 shares Friday.

Roy L. Grandjean
Of New Berlin
Dies Monday

NEW BERLIN—Roy Lee Grandjean, 74, died at 9:30 o'clock Monday morning at his home here after an extended illness. For many years he was engaged in the house-moving business in this section of Illinois.

Mr. Grandjean was born in New Berlin on Jan. 29, 1860, son of John and Lucy Carlock Grandjean. He was united in marriage with Ada F. Jackson on Dec. 20, 1904, at Springfield.

Surviving are his wife; one daughter, Mrs. Margie Pratt of New Berlin, and the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. Jessie Beers, Springfield; Mrs. Marie McDevitt, New Berlin; Mrs. Grace Milburn, Henry and Perry Grandjean, all of West Liberty, Iowa, and Arch Grandjean of Davenport, Iowa. There are two grandchildren.

The decedent was a member of the Baptist church.

The remains were taken to the McCullough Funeral Home.

Winchester Man Dies As Truck Overtakes

WINCHESTER—Earl Eddinger, 43, Winchester trucker, was killed instantly early Monday morning on route 36 four miles west of Winchester. Eddinger was driving his employer's Chevrolet flatbed truck at the time of the accident. Eddinger, who was alone, lost control of the truck and landed in a wheat field.

The victim has been employed for some time by Bill Moss, Winchester trucker. He was scheduled to take the truck to Springfield Monday morning and had picked up the truck on Sunday. It is not known exactly where he was going when the accident occurred. The first people to see the wreckage were passengers in an Oklahoma car. Howard Six of Bluffs arrived and notified State Police who called an ambulance. State officer Merle Burke responded. There was some difficulty in freeing Eddinger from the cab of the truck.

He was born Oct. 12, 1911 at Winchester, the son of George and Lottie Hooks Eddinger. He was married to Beatrice Keyes Hicks who survives with the following children, Edgar J., Amanda N., Roy Eugene, Gary and Deborah Allen, and one step-daughter, Linda Lou Hicks. His mother, Mrs. Lottie Eddinger of Winchester also survives with the following brothers and sisters, Mrs. Sherman Orris and Russell Eddinger, both of East Alton; Mrs. Charles Neuton and Arthur Eddinger, both of Rock Falls, Ill. and Charles Eddinger of White Hall.

Scott county coroner Kenneth Cunningham will conduct an inquest into the tragedy at a later date.

The body was taken to the Cunningham funeral home, where services will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday. Rev. Charles Leitz will officiate and burial will be made in Winchester cemetery.

Set Inquest In Combs Death For Thursday Night

Deputy Coroner Lloyd Markille announced Monday that he will conduct an inquest into the death of Donald Combs at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night, Dec. 9, in the circuit court room at the court house. The youth was fatally injured in an automobile wreck on North Main street. Thank giving night, death resulting Nov. 27.

The deputy coroner said investigation thus far has not produced any eye witnesses to the accident, which occurred in the 800 block on North Main. The deputy coroner asked that anyone who saw the collision contact him.

Return Touhy Gang Leader To Prison At Stateville

JOLIET, Ill. (AP)—Basil (The Owl) Banghart, 53, called "the most crime-wise man in the nation" and a leader of the Touhy gang convicted for kidnapping John (Jake The Barber) Factor, was returned to the Stateville Prison today from the federal prison at Alcatraz.

The gangsters who escaped with other members of the Touhy gang in a sensational break from Stateville Oct. 2, 1942 was put into a cell to serve out a 99-year term for the Factor kidnapping.

Banghart, Roger Touhy, head of the Touhy gang, Edward Darlak, Matthew Nelson, James O'Connor and St. Clair McInerney escaped from Stateville in 1942. Banghart, Touhy Nelson and Darlak were captured soon afterward by FBI agents. O'Connor and McInerney were slain when they resisted arrest.

The FBI refused to return Banghart to state authorities after his capture. They hustled him to Alcatraz to serve a 31-year sentence for a $100,000 mail robbery in 1933 in Charlotte, N. C. With time off for good behavior, Banghart wound up his federal sentence Sunday and was brought to Stateville to do his 99-year sentence.

Warden Joseph E. Ragen said Banghart will be treated the same as any other prisoner but that "he won't be in the same cell block with Touhy—that's for sure."

Ragen termed Banghart "the most crime-wise man in America."

Ragen added that he will ask for a grand jury indictment of Banghart for his part in the 1942 escape. If convicted, an additional 199 years could be added to his sentence.

The cause of the fire was not determined.

Homes Of Soviet U.N. Delegates Sold For Unpaid Taxes

MINNEAPOLIS, N. Y. (AP)—Two Long Island homes owned by the Soviet delegation to the United Nations were sold for unpaid taxes Monday.

Joseph Harris, a Baldwin, N. Y., realtor, bought the $5,372.56 tax lien on the palatial Glen Cove residence of Soviet delegation members. The value of the house, the former estate of the late George DuPont Pratt, was assessed at $354,250.

Harris already owns a $10,587.41 tax lien on the estate, which he bought a year ago. According to the law, the house becomes his if its present owners don't pay up the tax within two years from the sale of the tax lien.

Also sold was a $1,893.01 tax lien on Norwich House, another residence for some delegates in Upper Brookville, N. Y. The buyer was Milton Arosauer of New York City.

The Soviet U.N. delegation was not immediately available for comment on the transactions. However, the delegation has maintained in the past that it should be exempted from paying real estate taxes.

HEY GALS! HUNTING'S BETTER ON THE FARM

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—City gals looking for husbands would do well to cast their eyes into the farming areas, Dr. A. F. Wilden, rural sociology professor at the University of Wisconsin said Monday.

Dr. Wilden said both young men and women are quitting farms for the urban areas but that the girls are way ahead in migrating. He talked at the annual meeting of Midland Cooperatives, Inc. in Wisconsin's Bayfield County. The speaker said there are 134 boys to every 100 girls and Oneida County shows 226 youths, 26-24, per 100 girls. In urban Milwaukee County, things go into reverse, with only 93 potential husbands for every 100 girls.

LUNDY ISLAND'S 'KING' DIES

OXFORD, England (AP)—Martin Coles Harman, "king" of Lundy Island, a happy man who had his own little tax free realm, died here Monday at the age of 69.

Lundy Island is 1,000 acres of cliffs, fields and ancient ruins in the Bristol Channel, which somehow was overlooked when England and Wales took their modern political forms. It is 12 miles off the coast of Devon County, but the Devon Council has no authority over it. So Lundy gets along on the basis of some very old royal charters, and its 50 inhabitants, who are farmers and fishermen, have not found it necessary to introduce taxes.

Harman, who was a London financier, bought the whole place in 1925 for $80,000. He called it his "vest pocket dominion," and under his administration Lundy's relations with all lands have been cordial.

Lundy even has its own currency. On one side of its coins is stamped Harman's head. With no army, navy or foreign office to support, Lundy does without customs and excise, so wine and liquor are imported without duty.

Harman lived in a castle on the island. His death came while on a visit here.

SHEEPMEN MAP PLANS TO INCREASE DEMAND

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Representatives of the nation's sheepmen Monday charted steps they hope will increase the demand for lamb and wool.

The executive committee of the National Wool Growers Assn., meeting in advance of the annual convention which begins Tuesday, drafted bylaws for an American Sheep Producers Council. The organization would be incorporated in the State of Illinois.

J. M. Jones, executive secretary of the association, explained the step is the first one in a series which officials of the organization hope will evolve under provisions of the National Wool Act of 1954.

That measure provides for incentive payments to growers to stimulate the production of wool. It also sets up a program under which wool growers may assess themselves one cent per pound of wool marketed to finance an advertising campaign.

Jones said formation of a promotional organization is a requirement.

PREDICTS PROLONGED POLIO IMMUNITY

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—Dr. John Enders, one of the 1954 Nobel Prize winners in medicine, said Monday, "The road now seems open to a vaccine that might stamp out polio like smallpox by giving people prolonged immunity."

Dr. Enders made the statement at a news conference when he arrived in Stockholm to pick up the 1954 prize he was awarded in the fight against polio.

Mrs. Ballew, 90, Resident Here 30 Years, Dies

Mrs. Rand Ballew, who would have been 91 years old on Christmas day, died early Sunday morning at the Our Saviour's hospital. Mrs. Ballew, who resided with her daughter, Mrs. Mildred Boles at 431 South Church street, had been a resident of Jacksonville for the past thirty years.

She was born Dec. 23, 1883 at Pleasant Ridge, Iowa, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Mapes. Her husband, Lincoln Ballew, passed away many years ago. Two children also preceded Mrs. Ballew in death, a son, Richard, and a daughter, Mrs. Winifred Donovan.

Surviving is one daughter, Mrs. Biles and one granddaughter, Mrs. Mildred Frances Donovan Norells of Portland, Ore. There are two great grandchildren.

Mrs. Ballew was a member of the First Baptist church in Jacksonville.

The body was taken to the Williamson funeral home where services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday with Rev. Clair Malcomson officiating. Burial will be made in the Diamond Grove cemetery.

New Members Of BPWC Honored At December Dinner

The regular dinner meeting of the Jacksonville Business and Professional Women's club was held on December 2 at the Dunlap hotel. Miss Elsie Evans, president, conducted the business portion of the meeting.

The program, of a variety nature, was in charge of the membership committee, of which Miss Cecilia Munis is the chairman and Mrs. Alta Henry, the co-chairman.

The evening's activities were in honor of the new members. Courses analogous to the season were presented to the following new members: The Misses Irene Almsworth, Fannie Boyd, Laura Haynes, Joye Siroky, and Wilma Nichols, and the Mesdames Violet Auwater, Margaret Caldwell, Bess M. Cline, Maude Humeate, Elita Hull, Hazel Timmons, and Elizabeth Deffenbaugh.

In a resume of the history of the BAPW Clubs, Mrs. Alice Applebee said that it was in 1919 that the national organization began to function and in 1921 there occurred the organization of the Illinois Federation of BAPW clubs—10 in number. A year later the Jacksonville club began its services to the community.

"Winter Birds" was the subject of Miss Ann Mann's talk. Miss Mann is one who can identify approximately 100 birds. She told of the many kinds of feathered friends who find food and

Rep. Green Attends Assembly Of States

State Representative Hugh Green has returned to Jacksonville from the 12th General Assembly of the States held at the Edgewater Beach Hotel in Chicago on December 2, 3 and 4. In attendance were governors, senators and representatives from all over the United States, with the Illinois officials, headed by Governor Stratton as hosts.

Rep. Green said the high-light of the session was an address given at the State Dinner by James B. Conant, U.S. High Commissioner for Germany, who resigned the presidency of Harvard to accept the difficulties connected with the position which he has ably filled for the past two years.

The speaker emphasized the contrast of the present thinking in Germany with the feeling which prevailed in 1925. He said that there is no doubt in the mind of the average German of today touching the question as to whom won World War II whereas, in 1925 the average German did not seem to acknowledge that their nation had really lost the war.

He pointed out that, at a time when progress seemed hopeless, England, the United States, France and Germany joined, in a very heartening manner, the cooperative effort to insure stability and peace in Western Europe. In all of the negotiations, Secretary of State Mr. Foster Dulles exhibited remarkable patience, tact and wisdom, according to Ambassador Conant.

Western Germany has assumed its debts and is paying on them. The climate for foreign investments is greatly improved. Absence of support of Soviet Russia is very noticeable. The influence of the United States toward unification of Germany is warmly welcomed. These and other signs of the times, give promise that gradually and peacefully the goal of a politically stable Europe is being approached.

Additional subjects which were thoroughly discussed at the session included highway construction and financing with Governor Howard Pyle of Arizona presiding and General Lucius D. Clay, chairman of President Eisenhower's Special Advisory Committee on Highways, leading the panel discussion. The program calls for a 25 billion dollar expenditure because of the vast importance of the project from a civil as well as a military viewpoint.

Problems of the aging, water policy and programs and use of interstate compacts in connection with same, tax and fiscal policy, elementary and secondary education and suggested state legislation for 1955 all came in for careful consideration and mature deliberation.

Representative Green stated that most of those in attendance were persons who have had considerable experience in state affairs. Mrs. Green accompanied him to the assembly.

City Considers Sale Of Water To Chapin; PTA Urges Fluorides

A tentative agreement between the City of Jacksonville and the Village of Chapin by which untreated water will be sold to Chapin from the transmission line now under construction from the Illinois river, was read last night in the presence of the city council and village board.

After attorneys representing both the city and village explained conditions of the proposed agreement, a resolution was passed requesting that a contract be drawn up and presented for disposition.

After conferring with the Chapin village board regarding the sale of water, the city council received a large delegation of Parent-Teacher Association representatives, school and health officials, whose members urged the addition of fluorides to the public water supply as a means of promoting dental health.

Chapin Board Present

The regular council session started off with the conference with the Chapin delegation, including Mayor John Rankin, Clerk Lloyd Anderson, Wayne Bracewell, Frank Willard, Luther Norrup, Jesse Delph, Oren Hynes, and Allen Six, members of the board.

Orville N. Foreman, special counsel for the city in the water transmission line project, and Attorney Guy Winks, representing the Village of Chapin, discussed terms of the proposed contract.

They said Chapin has been interested in the building of the pipe line from the river ever since the project was first considered, and that its board wishes to purchase water for distribution to Chapin residents.

Points of Agreement

Foreman read a memorandum of agreement which contained the following points:

Sale of non-potable water by City to Village at a point to be mutually selected within the corporate limits of the Village and from the raw water transmission line of City. Quantity to be the entire requirements of the Village of Chapin and its inhabitants for purposes of resale, but such quantity not to exceed one million gallons per month except on renegotiation of the contract between City and Village.

Water to be furnished to Village through a meter and connection owned by City, but Village to furnish the necessary easement or real estate for location of meter, meter vault and appurtenances.

Sale to be conditioned upon their being a surplus of water in said transmission line not required by City of Jacksonville for the use of itself or its inhabitants.

Water to be delivered to consumer's side of meter at a minimum pressure to be determined by Casler & Stapleton to be the pressure which will obtain at such point as a minimum from the operation of the pressurizing pump to be installed by City at its pump house.

Village to agree to install appropriate facilities for treating the water as may be required to render the same thoroughly potable and in all respects acceptable to the requirement of the Illinois State Board of Health.

Price of water to be on a flat rate of 24c per 1000 gallons delivered to consumer side of meter installed and owned by City.

Water charges to be paid by Village on monthly statements rendered by City on thirty days net. Exemption of liability on part of City for damages due to interruption of service, or inability to furnish water contracted for.

25 Year Contract Proposed
Agreement term twenty-five (25) years.

Agreement to be conditioned upon ability of Village to finance and construct the necessary distribution system, such financing and construction to be undertaken at the earliest possible date, and in any event such financing to be accomplished and construction commenced within one year from the date of the agreement, unless otherwise extended by agreement of parties.

During the discussion it was brought out that Chapin would consume an estimated 484,000 gallons of water per month. Under terms of the proposed agreement the village could buy up to one million gallons per month. Chapin would issue bonds to build its own treatment and distribution facilities; Jacksonville would merely deliver water to the village at a stipulated rate, after which it would be resold by the village to its inhabitants.

The negotiations were brought to a close for the evening when Alderman Rowe, seconded by Alderman Merriman, moved that a contract be drawn up and submitted for consideration. The vote in favor of the motion was unanimous.

PTA Urges Fluorides

Mayor Hoagland and the council then conferred with some 40 men and women interested in the addition of fluorides to the water supply. William Messersmith, president of the David Prince Junior High PTA, acted as spokesman for the group.

He said 37 Illinois cities are now using the chemical as a means of reducing dental decay, and that
